Summary

I have been self-employed for several years. I own and manage a couple of rental properties abroad, and I own a small Pharmacy in the Philippines, where I was born and raised. As much as I'm fond of managing several businesses online, I have always been interested in cyberspace and have a passion for information technology.

I am now studying Cybersecurity BootCamp at Fullstack Academy, where I'm currently learning its fundamentals, such as detecting threats and incident response, analyzing network systems using Wireshark and Python, bash scripting, and cryptography. After I graduate from this program, I will be looking for a role where I can apply my knowledge and skills in the cyber industry.
